Response to Notice of Non-Compliant Amendment

Now comes applicant and through his attorney, the undersigned, responds as follows to the above Notice.

Despite attempts to reach the Legal Instruments Examiner no contact was made and hence this response is forwarded.

The Examiner has written in a phrase "Will Need Complete Paragraphs" in the section dealing with amendments to the claims. It is not understood what this phrase means as a review of the amended claims (copy enclosed) shows that they are complete paragraphs. While the subparagraphs are separated for ease of examination this is a practice that has been in use for 30 years, as long as the undersigned has been practicing before the Patent Office. Evidently, the Examiner has contrived to come up with her own interpretation of claim practice. Never in 30 years has the undersigned ever seen such an objection to the claims. This new practice of having clerical Patent Office employees review legal manifestations of claim practice is bad enough without allowing solo origination of objections without any basis in fact or law.

The claims are in proper form and the Examiner is solicited to pass the amendment along to the actual Patent Examiner to avoid further delay in the already tortuous amount of time to get anything done in the Office.

Respectfully submitted,

James. W. Hiney, Esq.
